Dear Ray,

We are endeavoring to learn from Judge Edward Dumbauld of Pittsburgh the terms of Edward Moschetti's parole, to see if re-entry into the commercial phase of numismatics is illegal. We have kept a constant watch on him since early summer, and all of his bank references have checked out A-OK and we have not had a single complaint based on his new business.

As soon as we hear something from Judge Dumbauld we will certainly let you know.

The Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society was once again honored when the announcement in the August, 1964 NUMISMATIST identified the 1964 recipients of the Heath Literary Awards.

Two WPNS members, Mr. Jack F. Burns and Mr. Raymond A. Byrne were honored for their contributions to numismatic research during 1963. Ray -

The attached is explained as follows:

In checking the social meeting register I noted that Mrs Mooney had neither signed in nor had been paid for. I had her sign.

This makes the register total 39 - the 37 we paid for less Gratz who showed up at the last minute - and Mrs Mooney.

I feel we have paid the Hotel plenty as is. However you contributed to meet the bill. The attached, for Mrs Mooney, I feel should be used to reduce your contribution to which I shall ask the Society to refund to you, unless you object violently - and maybe even then!

Sincerely
Glenn

At present the unoccupied space cost is absorbed by the present tenants who are: Headquarters Accounting, RAMAC, Distribution Services, E.&S., Administration and PAD. This is of concern at present even though PAD's portion is reimbursable from the Government.

In the immediate future, if other tenants are not obtained, this vacant space can be of grave concern because it will be idle while large sums for rent are spent by other Westinghouse activities operating elsewhere.

Dear Mr. Sweeney:

The Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society regrets the loss of your company in recent years and the necessity of invoking Article IV, Paragraph 1 of the constitution which reads as follows:

"Any member who neglects to pay his dues for three years shall be suspended after action has been taken by the Society, at a stated meeting, until his dues have been paid."

Such action was taken at the September 3, 1963 meeting of the Society, and I have been asked to so inform you.

As provided in Paragraph 3, you will, of course, be welcome to rejoin within one year by the payment in full of back dues and signifying your desire in writing. We sincerely hope that circumstances will permit you to do so and join us in the stimulating exchange of numismatic information and ideas.

Very truly yours,

G. A. Mooney

The Hunt Room of the Webster Hall Hotel was the scene of the annual social meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society on August 6, 1963. The "Hunt Room" was appropriate but the 21 members and their 18 guests did not have to hunt for specimens for their collections, sparkling exhibitions, or purchasers for their duplicates. A very pleasant atmosphere of numismatic conversation and good feeling prevailed.

The members of the Society appreciate your letter of July 29th and sincerely regret that you could not be present.

We had 21 members and 18 guests, stimulating discussion, sparkling exhibits, and few arguments!

As requested your best wishes were extended to those present. Ray Byrne and others mentioned appreciatively the many courtesies you showed them in Detroit. Others mentioned that they missed the unusual medallions you so often gave us the pleasure of viewing.

We hope that you and Evelyn enjoyed the trip to New York even if it did prevent you from being with us.

Your kind thoughts concerning the Society and its members are certainly appreciated.

I am writing to ask your indulgence in considering that either or both of you accept this invitation to be our guest and speaker at the annual banquet for our Society to be held here in Pittsburgh, Pa., Saturday, November 17, 1962.

We shall be honored indeed if you could both plan to make this affair but we shall be greatly pleased if either of you will accept. Please check your very busy schedule now and let me know as soon as is possibly convenient. This is the reason for our writing at this early date.

The husbands and their wives attend this affair annually and our society is blessed with such luminaries as George F. Marlier, Dr. James O. Sloss, William W. Woodside, curator of Carnegie Museum (where our meetings are held) and many others.

With every best wish for your favorable consideration and I am sure you know that the Western Pennsylvania area is nationally considered as a "fertile field" for numismatists and professional numismatists alike.

Very cordially yours,

Ray Byrne, V.Pres.

Dear Earl:

I tried to call you at your Office, but presumably you were tied up.

I have discussed the pros and cons of your nominating committee's offer to recommend me for the Curatorship of our Society, but because of the present routine of urgent business, I do not believe that I could do full justice to this assignment.

Under the circumstances, I have no alternative except to decline.

I will however, serve in any lesser capacity that would not be so demanding of my time. When I see you I will try to give you more specific reasons.

Kindest regards.

My dear David:

I hope I didn't disturb you at work the other day but I was somewhat anxious to know how we are faring in connection with our plans for the annual dinner of the Society. I was delighted to hear that the ground work has been laid and that things are progressing smoothly.

I also wish to take this opportunity of thanking you for subbing for me at our October meeting since I will be out of the city.

At a meeting of the Program Committee in July, we talked about revising our Society's Directory. Ray Byrne generously offered to undertake this task with our assistance. Would I be presuming too much to ask you to follow up with him on this matter.

I close with every good wish.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

MEETING NOV. 5, 1963

The Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society met at the Carnegie Museum Library, Tuesday, November 5, 1963 at 8:00 p.m. R.A. Byrne presided. Present were 14 members and 5 guests.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read. Mr. Woodside at this point reviewed the Museum space situation in the light of Dr. Sloss' comments of the previous month and summarized by stating that the Director is quite willing to give us space when it is available. Insofar as cases are concerned, he felt that the Museum would insist upon certain requirements and that funds would be welcome. He felt that a fund would be fine, but recommended that it not be earmarked for the Section of Coins.

The Treasurer's report was a dismal one. Invoices for authorized work exceeded the Treasury funds. A review of the situation and an investigation, indicated one of two courses of action. The first, that of raising dues was discussed and did not reach the point of a motion because it was felt that the tradition of 80 years should not be changed. The second solution was in the form of a motion by Dr. Sloss and seconded by Mr. Kiefer, that a special fund be established for special projects authorized only by specific authority of the Society. Such fund to be activated by donations, small auctions and perhaps in other ways. The motion was carried unanimously.

The Society then authorized the payment of our printing and postage bills.

The Membership Committee, represented by Bob Porter, pointed out that 3 recommendations, letters, and money were received. The letters were read for the first time.

The Coin Information Committee, Dr. Hudson, commented on the new publications, notices of which are attached to these minutes.

The Program Committee reported that the Annual Program has been developed and printed. Copies were distributed to members. Dr. Sloss also reported on the progress of the plans for the Annual Banquet, and requested coins for the Auction, "give aways", and a listing of those who plan to attend. In connection therewith, the Secretary announced that Mr. Millsop, Pres. of the Wierton Steel Corp., had graciously responded to our request by furnishing 75 steel key rings.

The Special Memento Committee, made up of Bob Hudson, Phil Williams, Ithamar Lando and Glenn Mooney, reported on correspondence and telephone calls with various executives of the Medallie Art Company of New York, with respect to the dies of the Society's Commemorative Medallion. In view of the fact that the original correspondence in 1928 indicates that the terms and the conditions provided for Medallie Art ownership, it appeared impossible to force the issue. However, Mr. Bill Louth, Pres. of Medallie Art, advised Mr. Mooney that he would release the dies if possitive assurance were given that no re-strikes would be made. In view of the impass, Mr. Mooney constructed a plack containing obverse and reverse cast copy of the Medallion for presentation to our speaker at the banquet, if it were the desire of the Society to do so. A description sheet accompanied the plack. The consensus of the group seemed to be that they were appropriate. They were turned over to the Program Committee, Dr. Sloss.

Eight pieces of correspondence were reported to the Society, one of which was a letter from a suspended member, Mr. R.A. Lloyd, requesting reinstatement. It was moved, seconded and carried that he be so reinstated and the Secretary was instructed to inform him his check for $5.00 was added to the Treasury. Mr. Byrne announced that Mr. Peters had been reported sick and in the hospital and the Secretary was instructed to write him a "speedy recovery" letter. Mr. Byrne also reported that 37 pieces of publicity concerning the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society and its members has been received since the June meeting.

There being no different or new business, Dr. Sloss introduced Mr. Woodside and his subject for the evening - Ancient British Coins, a copy of which is attached to these minutes.

Exhibits of the evening were devoted primarily to Coins of Great Britain.

Dr. Sloss exhibited hammered and milled silver pennies, early farthings and early commercial farthings of Great Britain.

Phil Williams exhibited gold coins of Britain from 1798. Various types and Rulers - to date, and British proof sets and coins.

Bill Woodside showed 14 ancient British coins in gold, silver, bronze and tin, in illustrating his talk.

Harry Bartley exhibited a parking meter token from the Hotel Bouives, Jandvoort, Holland. Also a New Castle Merchant's token exchangeable at the rate of 5 for 1 meter tokens. Also a Medallion Commemorating the Coronation of Edward VII and Alexandra Lithgon Celebration in 1902.

Duane Adams exhibited a copy of Albert Stockvis' book "Standard Coin and Metal Catalogue of the World", dated 1945.

Bob Hudson exhibited an 1863 U.S. Indian cent, counterstamped "Hacienda F.Brene", also a two bit Spanish Real, counterstamped Reuch Bien. Also shown was a Brazilian 80 Reis piece, counterstamped U.S. 1832, English half-penny, counterstamped U.S. 1804, one-half dollar, obverse and reverse, and obverse side of dime. Also, a Guano Loading Company token.

Ed Oschman discussed the exhibit of 3 Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society medals and an advertising cover cancelled Dec. 8, 1880, showing the Pittsburgh Exposition Building in the same view as that on the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society medals.

Ray Byrne exhibited English proof silver, copper and gilt of 1797 to 1806.

Bob Porter showed a complete set of King Edward VIII, Colonial Coins, and a set of Egyptian pieces depicting the Sphinx on the obversus.

The meeting was adjourned at approximately 9:55 p.m.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

MEETING OCTOBER 1, 1963

The Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society met at the Carnegie Museum Library, Tuesday, Oct. 1, 1963, at 8:15 p.m. Raymond A. Byrne presided. Present were 15 members and 2 guests.

The minutes of the previous meeting and the Treasurer's report were approved as read. In answer to the Treasurer's inquiry it was moved, seconded and ordered that the statement of Annual Associate Membership renewal in the Carnegie Institute for the year 1963-1964, amounting to $12.50, be paid.

Dr. Sloss, although not a member of the membership committee, reported that 3 potential members were being considered for sponsorship and that recommendation letters were now being prepared.

Dr. Hudson reported for the Coin Information Committee a list of new publications covering military currency, English & Mexican coins, odd and curious pieces, rates of exchange of foreign money, investment, and German tokens. The complete list is filed with minutes of this meeting.

Reporting for the Program Committee, Dr. Sloss confirmed the fact that Mr. John J. Pittman would be the speaker at the annual banquet to be held Saturday, November 16th at Stouffers Restaurant, Wood Street, downtown Pittsburgh, at 6:00 p.m. The charge, including everything, would be $5.00 per person. Dr. Sloss also reported that the annual program was being formulated and would be sent to the Secretary within a few days.

The Secretary reported only routine correspondence, copies of which are filed with the minutes. There were no items of deferred business.

Under new business a number of items were brought up. Dr. Sloss suggested that a honorarium, reimbursement, or memento, be planned for the banquet speaker. Subsequent discussion developed the feeling of those present that no honorarium, reimbursement, or compensation should be made but that a memento for this and perhaps other worthy persons should be considered. It was moved, seconded and ordered that a committee should be formed to investigate the matter. The President appointed Dr. Hudson, Phil Williams, Ithamar Landau and the Secretary, to this committee. During the discussion it was pointed out that the Curator had been asked to check on the location, condition and availability of the ~~d~~ⁱes for the Society medallion. This matter is now to be pursued by the committee.

The President pointed out that 8 pieces of publicity regarding the Society and its members had been received since the last regular meeting. The total number of articles in print from June 1963 to date is 25.

Mr. Bartley announced that the Pittsburgh District Token Collector's Club would meet on Sunday afternoon, October 20th at 2:00 p.m., in Room 206 of the downtown YMCA, at Third & Wood Street.

In connection with the plans for the annual banquet, the President pointed out that gifts, novelties and favors for 50 to 60 people were needed and requested members to notify Dr. Sloss of any pieces they might be able to provide.

In response to this request, Gordon Dodrill advised that Mr. Thomas E. Millsop, President of the Wierton Steel Corporation at Wierton, West Virginia, would provide 75 key rings, if requested.

Another item of new business was a suggestion by Dr. Sloss that a fund, separate from operating money, be established for the purpose of assisting the Museum in the procurement of specimens, exhibit cases and similar items, also in the matter of procuring suitable space for the exhibition of Numismatic material. He proposed that such a fund be formed from the proceeds of an auction or auctions of material donated by members. He pointed out the need for the preparation of a write-up on a short-range and long-range basis, covering a period of years. As the discussion progressed, the proposal was changed to exclude numismatic items and to include the coverage of such other special events as the striking of medallions and mementoes to worthy individuals. As far as the Museum was concerned, the matter would be confined to the housing and display of numismatic material. Mr. Kiefer made a number of comments as to the difficulties of the past in this regard. Mr. Foley suggested tabling the matter for the present and it was the consensus of those present that additional thought and consideration be given the matter in view of the absence of the Society Curator, Jack Burns and the Museum Curator, Wm. Woodside.

At the request of the members present, Ray Byrne reconstructed the events surrounding the robbery of a portion of his collection on Sunday, Sept. 29th. He commented upon the desirability of immediate action with respect to contacting dealers who have access to one or more teletype systems, if, and when, any other member had such an unfortunate situation.

Messrs. Landau and Foley, in view of the timeliness of the matter, made an excellent review of coin insurance policies, particularly explaining the details of the "coin floater".

In view of the absence of the scheduled speaker, Jack Burns, Mr.

Foley gave Mr. Burns' presentation which had been provided him. It covered the background of the preparation of his work on "The Coinage of Panama", copies of which were provided for each member. Accompanying the presentation was an exhibit of Mr. Burns' collection which includes specimens of every issue of Panama.

Following the program, the following exhibits were explained by members:

G. Kiefer exhibited two stainless steel cents of Costa Rica and a set of Nicaraguan coins. Ray Byrne showed coins of Venezuela, Caracas, Santa Marta, Guatemala, Honduras, and Costa Rica. Bob Porter commented on his coins from Cuba, Panama, Costa Rica and the Dutch West Indies.

Phil Williams showed a set of Panamanian coins and a number of items pertaining to the Columbian exposition. These included admission tickets, metallic season pass, medals, so-called dollars, an Isabella quarter, and the Columbian half-dollars in proof.

Dick Foley exhibited a double frame of Civil War medals and encampment badges and 8 uncirculated 1909 Lincoln cents. Mr. Mooney exhibited a number of Panamanian coins. Harry Bartley showed two tokens which were run over by the funeral train of President Harding. One has been counterstamped "8/7/23", the date that the train went through Pittsburgh, Pa. Dr. Sloss presented proof and proof-like dollars of Canada, dated 1949.

Dr. Hudson exhibited 6 anti-slavery metals in white metal and 2 Wedgewood - Sloan medallions. He also showed an 1834 U.S. cent, a 10 cent Liberia 1847 piece (said to be unique), a Dayton, Ohio, transportation token and a silver anti-slavery medal.

The meeting was adjourned at approximately 10:10 p.m.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

MEETING OF SEPTEMBER 3, 1963

The Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society met in the Carnegie Museum Library, Tuesday, Sept. 6, 1963, at 8:00 p.m. Raymond A. Byrne presided. Present were 19 members and 3 guests.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved as read. The Treasurer's report was supplemented by three special reports; one on the Social Meeting expenditures, one on the financial condition of the Society, and one on the delinquent dues.

With respect to the Social Meeting expenditures, it was the feeling of the Society that individual charges would henceforth be set at a rate which would cover all expenditures. With respect to the financial condition of the Society, it was the feeling that efforts should be made to collect delinquent dues and that miscellaneous contributions would be forthcoming as has been the case in past years. With respect to delinquent members, it was moved by Mr. Kennedy and seconded by Mr. Dixon that members delinquent, according to the Constitution, be suspended as of this date and that the Secretary be instructed to so inform those concerned. This was subsequently accomplished in the cases of Messrs. Cooper, Lloyd, Nelson, Sweaney, Shaffer, Stoneking and Compton.

The Treasurer read a request from the Mellon National Bank & Trust Company for a resolution appointing that bank as the Custodian of the Society's funds. It was moved by Mr. Foley and seconded by Mr. Kennedy that the resolution be adopted. Motion carried.

It was moved, seconded and ordered that the following bills be paid: Genesse Printing Company - $11.02 for envelopes. G.A. Mooney -

$8.96 for postage. These bills have since been paid.

The Coin Information Committee Chairman, Dr. Hudson, submitted a list of new publications covering the coinage of Cuba, primitive money, China, Mexico, the Confederancy, Panama and Germany. The complete list is filed with minutes of this meeting.

The Membership Committee's report was omitted.

Nine pieces of routine correspondence were reported to the Society. Mr. Byrne reported that Mr. Marlier had been elected an honorary member of the American Numismatic Association in Denver, and Mr. Foley reported that he had prepared and submitted a write-up on Mr. Marlier to the Numismatist. Mr. Byrne also reported that Mr. DeVos was awarded the silver medal for his 25 years in the ANA and commented that he had also completed 25 years in the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society.

Under new business, Mr. Mooney presented copies of the genealogy of the Ceasars, from Julius to Claudius I, and the Herod family tree.

Preceding his introduction of the speaker for the evening, Dr. Sloss asked the feeling of the Society as to the desirability of having Mr. John Pittman as banquet speaker this year. This suggestion received unanimous support.

The history and background of the Kittaning Medal was the subject of a paper presented by Dr. Hudson. This work was most original in that numismatic literature reveals little about this historic piece other than reports in a few auction catalogs. A copy of Dr. Hudson's paper was obtained and has been forwarded along with cuts of the medal to the Numismatist, Coin World, and Numismatic Scrapbook magazines.

Exhibits of the evening were devoted primarily to numismatic items of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania.

Mr. Mooney exhibited five tradesmens' cards of Pittsburg and Allegany, and ten medals and medallions of Pittsburgh, including the bicentennial and sesquicentennial issues and the Bank of Pittsburgh, the oldest bank of the United States, west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Mr. Byrne exhibited Pittsburgh Civil War Transportation and Merchant Tokens and medals. Mr. Beam showed Civil War centennial medals of Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, including Stuart's Raid, Lee's Invasion and the Burning, (not yet issued). He also exhibited the Jeannette, Pennsylvania, 75th Anniversary Souvenir 50 cent piece, and the 150 years of Peace with Canada Medallion.

Mr. Foley exhibited a token of admission to The Meadows, a Harness Racing Track near Pittsburgh, Pa., a set of bimetallic brass and aluminum tokens of George W. Dudley, Akron, Iowa, in denominations of $1.00, 50¢, 25¢, 10¢ and 5¢. He also showed an uncirculated roll of Victory Liberty Loan tokens, issued by the United States Treasury Department in 1918, to purchasers of Victory Bonds. It is believed to be the only roll in existence at this time.

Harry Bartley explained his exhibits of twenty-one Civil War cents, a complete set of tokens issued by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and twenty-six assorted tokens of Pittsburgh and vicinity. Mr. Porter exhibited miscellaneous tokens, including hard time, Civil War and transportation. Mr. Dodrill showed his set of complete Japanese paper money for the Invasion of the Phillipines, Malaya, Oceania, Sumatra and Burma.

Dr. Hudson illustrated his talk on the Kittanning Medal by exhibiting specimens in silver and copper before the dye broke and copper thereafter. The Medal was awarded to Col. John Armstrong for the destruction of the Indian Village of Kittanning on Sept. 8, 1756.

The meeting was adjourned approximately 9:40 p.m.

ANCIENT BRITISH COINS

The coinage of the peoples of what is now England, before the Island was conquered by the Romans, is little known and even less collected in the United States, which is rather a pity in view of the antiquarian interest which the series possesses. Nevertheless, the very obscurity of this series permits me to generalize in the course of this paper, and encourages me to think that such errors of omission and commission as it may contain may escape undetected.

Those of us who collect the coins of Great Britain, or who have studied the history of that country, are prone to think in terms of historical periods, as though a wall had been erected before and after each. The fallacy of this thinking is perfectly obvious, when one considers that the money of Carthage and of Rome alike had economic and artistic roots in the coins of the Greeks, and that the currencies of the Byzantines and Franks were but two continuations of the Roman system. History is a flowing continuity, unbroken by the arbitrary dams which are indicated in our textbooks.

The period of time which we are considering is relatively brief, compared with the Roman occupation or the Saxon settlements, beginning somewhere in the 2nd century B.C. and continuing to the Roman conquests of 43 to about 80 A.D. Yet the native peoples had the misfortune to leave us no written records; like the Philistines, the Carthaginians and the more modern Aztecs and Incas, our knowledge is based chiefly upon the writings of the enemies who overcame them. As a result, these accounts are biased and sketchy, and leave many gaps which we must fill by conjecture, and it is interesting that the coins have done more than a little to fill in some of the blanks.

It is believed that several of the great waves of migration which emerged from the unknown areas of Germany or western Asia, and which eventually overwhelmed the Roman Empire, reached Great Britain. Such names as Celts, Gaels and Brythons (or Britons) are applied to them, and they came in waves at long intervals, the later conquering or pushing back the earlier and more settled peoples. Whatever the names of these waves, and wherever their origins, our definite knowledge begins with the two raids of Julius Caesar in 55 and 54 B.C.

The immensely ambitious Caesar, leading a first-rate military force, had embarked upon the conquest and pacification of Gaul, the modern areas of France and the Low Countries lying between the Rhine and the Pyrenees. As his campaign progressed, he was increasingly annoyed by aid, in the form of reinforcements, supplies and shelter, which his Gallic enemies received from their kinsmen across the Channel in the island which Romans called Britannia. In order to punish such intervention and to prevent its repetition, Caesar led amphibious forces to south-east Britain in two successive years, and after defeating the local tribesmen and briefly occupying a little territory, he withdrew to Gaul with his prisoners. He had not conquered the country, nor had he attempted to do so.

The emperors Augustus and Tiberius, who succeeded him in power, both planned a genuine conquest, but it remained for Claudius to undertake it in 43 A.D. Moving with methodical efficiency, the armies conquered one area after another, and the civil officers followed, to consolidate the new Roman province. For the most part this was effective in imposing the Roman civilization upon the country, although extensive military forces remained active along the Welsh and Scottish borders and in subduing revolts. The last great revolt came in 61 A.D., when the Romans annexed the territory of the Iceni, in east-central Britain, upon the death of their king without male issue. The annexation was most brutal, and the Icenian queen, Boudicca (or Boadicea), led a revolt which spread over half the province and resulted in the massacre of some 70,000 Romans. The Romans eventually won, of course, but milder rule resulted.

The area of "Britain" actually excluded Wales and Cornwall, and extended north through Yorkshire almost into Scotland. Outside of this region were peoples of a lesser degree of culture, perhaps the remnants of the earlier migrations -- the Welsh, the Picts, the Scots. We are not concerned with them, for they produced no coins.

Within Britain, itself, we have two groups of tribes. The first group was located in the southeast, and was closely related to the peoples of western Gaul. It was these tribes, which we can call the Belgic group, which had helped their kinsmen oppose Caesar, and they had long been more or less influenced by Greek and Roman traders. These were the Cantii, the Atrebates and their allies, the Regni, the Trinovantes and the Catuvellauni. The latter became the dominant tribe through conquest, and one of its conquests provided a pretext for the final Roman invasion.

Outside of the area occupied by the Belgic peoples were other tribes -- the Durotriges, the Dobuni, the Coritani, the Iceni and the Brigantes -- which probably were of the same racial stock but had a less-developed culture, most likely because they were more remote from Gaul in their location. The boundaries of the tribal territories cannot be precisely determined today, and some areas may have been held by no one tribe.

The people definitely were not savages, although less advanced than the Mediterranean populations. The tribes, as indicated above and on the map, were probably confederacies of tribal groups, and their "kings" could be more accurately called "chiefs". If an analogy is needed, perhaps we can refer to the tribes and confederacies of the North American Indians.

The coins which these peoples produced can be traced, in type, to Greek and Roman prototypes. Thus the British currency is not a separate subject, a separate pool so to speak, but rather an eddy or backwater in the main stream of ancient numismatics.

One of the famous coins of the ancient world was the beautiful stater of Philip of Macedon, father of Alexander the Great, which bears a head of Apollo and either a chariot or a horseman. There is little doubt that many of the earlier coins attempt to imitate this piece of gold, or to imitate the imitations which were made in Gaul. It was long believed that such coins reached Gaul through traders; there appears to be later evidence that the Romans, having pillaged the treasuries of Greece, used the huge quantities of gold staters to pay their frontier forces in the West.

Whatever the route or method, the British (and Gallic) coins display a crude laureate head upon one side, and a horse -- without chariot or rider -- upon the other. As time passed, the designs evolved into something different. The head becomes a conventionalized design, perhaps of leaves, without resemblance to human portraiture. The horse continues, surrounded by nondescript objects which probably have no significance as symbols. None of these coins bears an inscription, and the areas of their origin can be assumed only upon the basis of finds.

Later coins are inscribed with the names of rulers, in more or less abbreviated form, and occasionally with a place name, also abbreviated. Often these are neatly done, frequently they are imitative of Roman rather than Greek types, and perhaps they were the work of Gallic or Roman-trained workmen rather than of British artisans. These come from the so-called Belgic tribes, or at least the best of them do, and have gone a long way to add to and to clarify our earlier knowledge of the people who used them.

For example, we know the names of 12 British kings and queens from Roman writings which have survived to our time. But 7 of this number are represented by attributable coins. Yet there are at least 22 others whose names we know, in whole or in part, solely from coins, and whose probable territories we can surmise from the locations of finds. Upon this basis, Derek Allen has been able to attempt a reconstruction of the Belgic dynasties and to conjecture the probable dates of issue.

Numismatists who like puzzles will enjoy the study of these relics of a well-nigh forgotten time, while those who seek precise data on their coins will despair of collecting them. This, of course, is true of almost all ancient coinages. Price will be a deterrent to many collectors, for the commonest British coins by far are the gold pieces. (Next commonest are the bronze and tin coins, with the silver occurring least frequently.)

There is no need, however, for the numismatist to feel that in collecting the British series he is travelling upon a road which is wholly without signs or direction markers. Several excellent works on the subject exist. The outstanding book is The Coins of the Ancient Britons, by Sir Arthur Evans, (London, 1864; supplement, London, 1890) who achieved fame for his work at Mycenae^{and} in Crete. Later writers have built upon the foundation of Evans' work, and some, like Derek Allen, in his The Belgic Dynasties of Britain and Their Coins (Oxford, 1944) have revised our historical thinking upon numismatic evidence.

To such books I must, of necessity, refer those who are interested in acquiring a broader knowledge of these pieces, for time does not permit more than this generalized and superficial discussion. For which my listeners may be thankful, since detailed discussion of types, distribution, rarity and similar matters would make this paper not only too long but, to many of you, infinitely dull.

Perhaps examination of the little exhibit of examples from my own collection will prove more amusing.

Dear Fellow Member of W.P.N.S.:

Each year our Society sends you this most cordial invitation to attend the annual "Social" affair at which time you are most welcome to ask your friends to come along and join in the festivities. This year is no exception.

The 1962 social meeting of our society will be held at the Webster Hall Hotel, (Hunt Room) on Tuesday evening, August 7th from 7 P.M. till 9 P.M. The nominal charge per person is $2.50 which will cover the excellent luncheon that has been prepared for you and your guests. Please help us make this an annual outstanding event by your cooperation and a quick reply with the enclosed prepaid postcard indicating your intention(s) to be with us and the number of guests that your party will contain.

As you well know by now, this is the meeting at which we urge you to "live up" to the motto of our society by bringing along some nice coins from your collection to exhibit. Tables will be provided for your use for both exhibits as well as any coins of your choice that you may care to dispose of to those attending. In this way, you may "get rid of those troublesome duplicates" that have been storing up and which your wives threaten to throw out during the housecleaning periods each year. Space will be provided for this purpose too.

Don't forget, Tuesday, August 7th, Hunt Room, Webster Hall Hotel, $2.50 per person (and we assure you that you will have a most enjoyable evening informally with your fellow numismatists). Don't forget please return the card pronto so that we may know how many to prepare that delicious luncheon for. Be seein' you there.

"UNITED STATES TERRITORIAL AND PIONEER GOLD"

The Private Gold Series is one of the necessity moneys of the United States and is most interesting and historical of all the areas of numismatics. These coins were born of necessity and issued to fill the vacuum that existed in remote areas of our country and principally in California immediately following the Gold Rush of 1848 and 1849.

Historically, the Gold Rush had its onset at the time of discovery of gold on John Augustus Sutter's property at Sutter's Fort, California. James Marshall, his foreman, while building a saw mill on January 24, 1848, discovered nuggets of gold. The citizens of Lititz, Pennsylvania, the town where Sutter eventually retired to and where he died, and is now buried on the Moravian graveyard in that community, tell the following story:

Sutter forwarded to the Philadelphia Mint gold for melting and making coins and the mint leaked out the discovery of gold in California and this started the Gold Rush. Sutter came east to sue the government and settled in Lititz, Pennsylvania because a niece of his was attending school in that community. Eventually, the government awarded him a number of thousands of dollars to settle his case and he eventually died in Lititz, Pennsylvania. This story is controversial to a common one that states that he returned to Pennsylvania in 1873, a ruined man and living on a pension granted him from the State of California. I would tend to believe the Lititz story.

The economic frustration and the stringency of metallic currency stimulated the business firms to issue a gold metallic token. This is one of the great necessity issues of our country along with the Jackson Hard Times Tokens and Civil War Tokens and encased postage stamps.

The issue of Templeton Reid and Bechtler are not true necessity issues, however fit the Private Gold Series. The Federal Government encouraged these private issues and some "bar money" pieces show the stamp of the U. S. Internal Revenue Department. Under the laws of the United States which forbade any state to issue coins, however, owing to a loop hole in the laws, private individuals were permitted to make coins. Some of these were gold coins of good quality and these disappeared from the market being melted down for their gold content while others of inferior grade were traded, eventually refused, and finally melted down when the issuing company needed cash or was liquidated.

As roads were built and lines of communication improved, the U. S. coinage became plentiful and eventually the San Francisco mint supplied sufficient coins. However, much of this necessity gold money found its way into the melting pots of the mints and the assay offices. The United States passed a law June 4, 1864 forbidding individuals to issue any form of money. Today few specimens of this rare money exists.

WPMS HEARS BYRNE'S STORY OF THE SOMMER ISLANDS PIECES

A Richland Memorial Hospital Parking Token from Dallas, Texas, and Captain Smith's "Hogges" are very unlikely pieces to be discussed at a meeting. However, Mr. Harry C. Bartley exhibited and explained the token which now has so much significance and Mr. Ray Byrne presented a paper on the story of the Sommer Islands or Bermuda pieces. (He sub-titled it Captain Smith's "Hogges"), at the December 3rd meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

A copy of Mr. Byrne's paper is attached.

In addition to Messrs. Bartley's and Byrne's exhibits, were Mr. Foley's collection of Sommer Islands pieces, including the original Wuesthoff dies of the XX Shilling pieces.

Robert S. Porter showed a set of Cape Verde Copper of 1930, a set of Caribbean Copper of 1955, a Republic of Egypt Crown, an English two-penny cart wheel (1797), and an English half-penny of Lady Godiva Token.

Phil Williams exhibited his Massachusetts and Connecticut cents of the 1880's, his Washington double headed cents, and his Washington cent of 1783.

D.L. Davis discussed an original copy of the book "Die Münzen Und Medaillen - Von Köln. He then presented the book to the WPMS Library.

Dr. James Sloss exhibited some magnificent gold, consisting of a Charles IV, Eight Escudo of Columbia and several United States 1795 Eagles.

WESTERN PENNA. NUMISMATIC SOCIETY
HOLDS EIGHTY FIFTH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Marlier, Woodside, Pittman are names to spark the interest of seasoned numismatists. Byrne, Sloss, Hudson, Burns, Williams are other well-known personalities. To have them and other members and their wives and associates together at one time was a unique and singular honor for the WPNS as it celebrated its 85th birthday on November 16, 1963 in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The presence of a living legend in the person of Mr. George F. Marlier, aged 95, was an outstanding feature of the Annual Dinner. Mr. Marlier, probably the oldest living Numismatist, was presented an American Numismatic Association Honorary Membership plaque which had been accepted for him at the ANA Convention in Denver, by Mr. Ray Byrne, Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society President.

Mr. John J. Pittman of Rochester, New York, enthralled the 63 members and guests with his sparkling comments on numismatics, including an account of the auction of the Palace Collection of Ex-King Farouk. He also conducted a 10 minute auction of coins donated to the Society for this purpose.

The ladies particularly were fascinated by the grandeur of the Egyptian affair and the stimulating excitement of the Society sale conducted by the Master Auctioneer. It is suspected that some headway was made in the continuing battle to change some wives' feeling that numismatics is the science of withdrawing from circulation, coins which could otherwise be spent!

A fine dinner, bourse, and exhibited material (one exhibit valued at over a Million Dollars) rounded out a fine evening, planned and arranged by Dr. Jim Sloss of Beaver, Pa.

ANCIENT BRITISH COINS DISCUSSED AT
WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

(ABC's Discussed at W P N S ?)

The twilight of English history was conjectured upon by W.W. Woodside, as he spoke on "Ancient British Coins" before the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society on November 5, 1963.

Using present day analogies, and illustrating points with ancient coins, he made this misty past a most interesting, lively, and intriguing period.

Conjecture is sometimes necessary, he pointed out, because the native peoples from that distant past left us no written records. Therefore, our knowledge is based almost entirely on the later writings of their enemies who overcame them. It is suspected that these accounts are somewhat biased, sketchy, and incomplete. It is interesting that coins have done more than a little to fill in some of the gaps.

In keeping with the theme of the evening, exhibits for the most part consisted of coins of Great Britain.

Dr. Sloss exhibited hammered and milled silver pennies, early farthings, and early commercial farthings of Great Britain.

Phil Williams exhibited gold coins of Britain from 1798. Various types and Rulers - to date, and British proof sets and coins.

Bill Woodside showed 14 ancient British coins in gold, silver, bronze and tin, in illustrating his talk.

Harry Bartley exhibited a parking meter token from the Hotel Bouvies, Jandvoort, Holland. Also a New Castle Merchant's token exchangeable at the rate of 5 for 1 meter token. Also a Medallion Commemorating the Coronation of Edward VII and Alexandra Lithgon Celebration in 1902.

Duane Adams exhibited a copy of Albert Stockvis' book "Standard Coin and Metal Catalogue of the World", dated 1945.

Bob Hudson exhibited an 1863 U.S. Indian cent, counterstamped "Hacienda F. Brene", also a two bit Spanish Real, counterstamped Reuch Bien. Also shown was a Brazilian 80 Reis piece, counterstamped U.S. 1832, English half-penny, counterstamped U.S. 1804, one-half dollar, obverse and reverse, and obverse side of dime. Also, A Guano Loading Company token.

Ed Oechman discussed the exhibit of 3 Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society medals and an advertising cover cancelled December 8, 1880, showing the Pittsburgh Exposition Building in the same view as that on the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society medals.

Ray Byrne exhibited English proof silver, copper and gilt of 1797 to 1806.

Bob Porter showed a complete set of King Edward VIII, Colonial Coins, and a set of Egyptian pieces depicting the Sphinx on the obverses.

The Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society, one of the first numismatic societies in this country is also one of the most thorough and active insofar as its objective is concerned - "the promotion of Numismatic Science and the formation of a Cabinet and Library".

Practically all of the monthly papers are so well researched, developed and presented that they are published as original works in their fields.

An example of the Society's progressiveness is the attached "Constitution, By-Laws and Roster of Members", which binds members together, constantly reminds them of the rules, history and objectives of the organization, and is a most useful handbook enabling members to frequently contact each other.

Names, addresses and telephone numbers of members have been deleted from this layout for obvious reasons.

HISTORICAL

On June 14, 1878, eight men met formally in Pittsburgh to organize a society for the study of numismatic science and for exchange of ideas and information. On that date the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society came into being. The founders were:

George H. Clapp	S. H. Morgan
Frank J. Kirk	John Rivett
E. F. Maynard	George W. Rode
Henry McKnight	R. W. Shipman

This group continued informal meetings during the first year, and on June 20, 1879, when the membership roll included seventeen names, the first officers were elected. These officers were:

S. H. Morgan, President
Frank J. Kirk, Vice-President
George W. Rode, Secretary
E. F. Maynard, Treasurer
J. E. H. Kelley, Curator

The present constitution and a set of by-laws were adopted on November 21, 1879, and these original documents, subscribed to with the signatures of the early members, remain in the Society's possession. After some years, disagreements arose among the members which resulted in a formal dissolution of the Society on December 6, 1889, and the library and cabinet were divided among the members at that time. The Society remained dormant until 1910, when it was revised by some of its members, who organized it under the original constitution.

Since its revival, the Society has continued to grow and flourish, much of the credit for which belongs to George F. Marlier who served as President through many of its most difficult years. The library has been re-established and continues to grow; monthly meetings have proved to be a valuable source of information and mutual help to the membership. The Fiftieth Anniversary of the Society was celebrated by a dinner at the Rittenhouse Hotel, in Pittsburgh, on June 14, 1928, at which time a medal was issued to commemorate the occasion. The Sixtieth Anniversary was also marked by a dinner in the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club of Pittsburgh on December 13, 1938.

The Society issued medals in 1878 and 1879 as official souvenirs of the Pittsburgh Exposition in those years. Each was struck in silver, white metal, bronze and brass, and although no record survives of the numbers struck, complete sets are difficult to obtain. The medal issued in 1928 was designed by the late Andrey Avinoff and was produced by the Medallic Art Company of New York; 10 were struck in silver and 400 in bronze. All of these pieces are illustrated in the present publication.

Close ties have been maintained with the American Numismatic Association, to which the Society was host at its annual convention in August, 1935. This was the second visit of the A. N. A. to Pittsburgh. The Association's first convention, following its organization in Chicago in 1891, was held at Niagara Falls, N. Y., in the Spring of 1892, but adjourned to complete its business later in the same year at Pittsburgh. Relations with the Carnegie Museum, where the Society's meetings have been held for many years, have also been most cordial, Andrey Avinoff, Director of the Museum from 1926 to 1945, was an honorary member, as was George H. Clapp, our last surviving charter member and long a Trustee of the Museum, while four other members have served as curators or associates in the Museum's Section of Coins.

The present issue of the Constitution and By-Laws of the Society comes in the Eighty-ninth Anniversary year. The Membership Roster which is included attempts to list all members with the years of their election to membership. This has been based upon the Roster published in 1938, amended by later additions to the membership and by information gleaned from further study of old records. It is probable that errors and omissions still exist since minutes of many early meetings have been lost or destroyed. It is hoped that members and former members will communicate to the Secretary any information that they may have which will provide correction of these defects.

ANNUAL PROGRAM OF THE WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

Advance planning, variety of numismatic subjects, and convenience for members are features of the 1943 - 1964 program of the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Guests are welcome to have these well-prepared, original papers which often are the result of years of research and observation.

"The Coinage of Panama", a new work by Jack F. Burns, was the subject of the October 1, 1963 meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Burns presented a thorough and sometimes humorous account of his years of interest, searching, trials and tribulations in the preparation of his work on this interesting series, which was published as Volume No. 7 of "Numisma" by John Gartner at the Hawthorn Press, 15 Guilford Lane, Melbourne Cl, Australia. A copy of the work was presented to each member present.

Exhibits for the most part were coins and tokens of Latin American Countries. One of the high lights being Mr. Burns' own collection which included specimens of every issue of Panama.

Dr. James Sloss announced that plans have now been formulated for the annual banquet on November 16th at Stouffers Wood Street Restaurant. Wives, guests and visitors are welcome.

Following the program, the following exhibits were explained by members:

G. Kiefer exhibited two stainless steel cents of Costa Rica and a set of Nicaraguan coins. Ray Byrne showed coins of Venezuela, Caracas, Santa Marta, Guatemala, Honduras, and Costa Rica. Bob Porter commented on his coins from Cuba, Panama, Costa Rica and the Dutch West Indies.

Phil Williams showed a set of Panamanian coins and a number of items pertaining to the Columbian Exposition. These included admission tickets, metallic season pass, medals, so-called dollars, an Isabella quarter and the Columbian half-dollars in proof.

Dick Foley exhibited a double frame of Civil War medals and encampment badges and eight uncirculated 1909 Lincoln cents. Mr. Mooney exhibited a number of Panamanian coins. Harry Bartley showed two tokens which were passed over by the funeral train of President Harding. One has been counter stamped "8/7/23", the date that the train went through Pittsburgh, Pa. Dr. Sloss presented proof and proof-like dollars of Canada, dated 1949.

Dr. Hudson exhibited six anti-slavery medals in white metal and two Wedgwood-Sloan medallions. He also showed an 1834 U.S. cent, a 10 cent Liberia 1847 piece (said to be unique), a Dayton, Ohio, transportation token and a silver anti-slavery medal.

KITTANNING MEDAL DISCUSSED AT
WESTERN PA. NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

The Kittanning Medal, believed to be the first medal engraved and struck in the Colonial area of what is now United States, was discussed by Dr. R.J. Hudson at the Sept. 3, 1963, meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society at the Carnegie Library in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Nineteen members and three guests were educated and entertained by Dr. Hudson's exhibits and discussion on these unusual pieces.

Exhibits for the most part augmented the evening's subject of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania tokens, store cards and medals. Glenn Mooney exhibited five tradesmen's cards of Pittsburg and Allegany, and ten medals and medallions of Pittsburgh, including the bicentennial and sesquicentennial issues and the Bank of Pittsburgh, the oldest bank of the United States west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Ray Byrne exhibited Pittsburgh Civil War Transportation and Merchant Tokens and medals. Frank Beam, showed Civil War centennial medals of Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, including Stuart's Raid, Lee's Invasion and the Burning, (not yet issued). He also exhibited the Jeannette, Pennsylvania, 75th Anniversary Souvenir 50 cent piece, and the 150 years' of Peace with Canada Medallion.

Dick Foley exhibited a token of admission to The Meadows, a Harness Racing Track near Pittsburgh, Pa., a set of bimetallic brass and aluminum tokens of George W. Dudley, Akron, Iowa, in denominations of $1.00, 50¢, 25¢, 10¢ and 5¢. He also showed an uncirculated roll of Victory Liberty Loan tokens, issued by the United States Treasury Department in 1918, to purchasers of Victory Bonds. It is believed to be the only roll in existence at this time.

Harry Bartley explained his exhibits of twenty-one Civil War cents, a complete set of tokens issued by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and twenty-six assorted tokens of Pittsburgh and vicinity. Bob Porter exhibited miscellaneous tokens, including hard time, Civil War and transportation. Gordon Dodrill showed his set of complete Japanese paper money for the Invasion of the Phillipines, Malaya, Oceania, Sumatra and Burma.

Dr. Hudson illustrated his talk on the Kittanning Medal by exhibiting specimens in silver and copper before the dye broke and copper thereafter. The Medal was awarded to Col. John Armstrong for the destruction of the Indian Village of Kittanning on Sept. 8, 1756.

HOBBIES

It's Not Just Money

When the mint needs money—that's news. Not news that U.S. Mint Director Eva B. Adams wants to shout from the housetops; she fears that too much publicity about a coin shortage may make matters worse by encouraging hoarding. But in fact, pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars are all in short supply, though the mints in Denver and Philadelphia are working around the clock to plink them out, and the American Bankers Association has requested its 13,125 member banks to poke around in their vaults for any stockpiled coins that could be put into circulation.

Chief reasons for the coin shortage are the growing population, the increased gross national product, the proliferation of vending machines and parking meters, and the penny-gobbling of local sales taxes. A factor that is harder to measure is the mushroom growth of one of America's fastest-growing hobbies—numismatics.

Scandalous Speculators. There are some 8,000,000 coin collectors in the U.S. today, and their numbers are growing so fast that the prices of coins—rare and not so rare—are skyrocketing. Items:

► A 1909S-VDB Lincoln penny worth $13.50 in 1953, was worth $165 last year and $310 today.

► A 1926D Buffalo nickel, worth $5 in 1953, brought $45 in 1962 and $190 this year.

► Only two years ago, an 1856 "Flying Eagle" penny could be had for $800; today it sells for $2,500.

► Among really valuable items are the 1804 silver dollar, which brought $36,000 at its last sale, and the Brasher Doubloon, which the coin department of Gimbel's in Manhattan has insured for $100,000.

Numismatists (from nomisma, Greek for anything sanctioned by usage, the current coin) include such diverse types as the late business wheeler-dealer Samuel Wolfson, ex-King Farouk (who sold his collection for about $3,000,000), Jayne Mansfield and Cardinal Spellman. But most collectors are children; these days they can even begin their numismatic careers at Woolworth's, which has installed coin departments in several of its stores.

Scandal of the coin world is the way these beginners are being threatened by speculators. This month, for instance, before and during the Denver convention of the American Numismatic Association, the price for a roll of 40 Jefferson 50D (which signifies 1950 minting in the Denver plant) nickels jumped from $500 to $750, then settled at $700.

Another low-priced item in any U.S. coin collection is proof sets—packets of specially polished samples of the half dollar, quarter, dime, nickel and penny sold by the U.S. mint for $2.10. About 200,000 of the proof sets for 1960 had a smaller-than-average zero in the date on the penny, and the price for these has bounced within the past few weeks from $26 to $38.

One of a Kind. Most top coin collectors avoid publicity; even though their collections are usually in safe-deposit boxes, burglars may be tempted to break into their houses on the off chance of picking up a few valuable coins. And with the exception of really rare pieces, it is almost impossible to trace coins; one collection that has vanished is the 444-coin group assembled by former Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, which was stolen last Nov. 12. The only complete collection of U.S. coins belongs to Baltimore Banker Louis Eliasberg, who keeps it in a safe-deposit vault.

Eliasberg began collecting in 1928, when his family returned from Europe with some unspent foreign coins. In 1951 he bought the coin that made the collection complete: an 1873CC dime for which he paid $4,000. His most valuable coin, though, is a $3 gold piece minted in San Francisco in 1870. Its rarity cannot be exceeded, for it is the only one in existence.

AUTOMATION

1410 Is Watching

Today's Americans are a submissive lot. A generation ago, when someone suggested collecting everyone's fingerprints and filing them with the FBI, the civil libertarians shrieked with rage. But these days, hardly any U.S. auto driver knows—or seems to care—about a big grey machine in Washington that clicks and whirs month in, month out, at the task of monitoring a motorist's habits on the highway.

The machine is the IBM 1410 computer of the U.S. Commerce Department's National Driver Register Service, a little-known Government body set up by an Act of Congress 2½ years ago. It is a step toward a computerized Big Brotherhood that may one day be keeping elaborate tabs on everybody.

All U.S. citizens who have had their drivers' licenses revoked for drunken driving or who have been in a fatal crash are listed in a master file, against which the computer can check any new license application and flash a reply within 24 hours to the state that sends it. Although there is a move on to broaden the machine's purview, present law prevents the computer from registering any other offense (parking, running red lights, etc.), and subsequent acquittals, or other altered court judgments are caught by interstate exchange of records. So far, only the District of Columbia, Missouri and Maryland send all their applications in for checking. Most states check only names that are new in the state or seem to be "suspicious characters"; Massachusetts, Delaware, Georgia and Florida do not participate in the project at all. But no fewer than 24,000 fraudulent applications have been turned up to date, and the states are sending in more and more applications for checking—300% more in fiscal 1963 than in the previous year.

The 1410 handily nabs such types as one Washingtonian who lost his District of Columbia license, got another in Virginia, and when that was revoked, picked up one in Maryland—which he was carrying when he killed a five-year-old child. The computer also has a wily way of watching out for name changers; when, for instance, someone named A. Joseph Doaks applies in another state as Aloysius J. Doaks.

Sometimes the electronic brain casts a long shadow. A man at the drivers' license bureau in Phoenix read about the checking system on his application and turned tail so fast that he ran right through the license bureau's plate-glass office door.

WESTERN PA. NUMISMATIC SOCIETY MEETING REPORT TO MEMBERS

A 1797 U.S. half eagle, 16 star variety, pennies of the Saxon Heptarchy and coins of the Kings of England from Edgar to date were some of the exhibits members showed and discussed with each other at the July 2nd, 1963, meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society.

John M. Kennedy set the theme of the evening with his paper on English Silver Coinage. He traced that coinage from the end of the 8th to the middle of the 20th centuries. From the denier of King Offa to the crown of Kruger Gray, Mr. Kennedy described the silver coins with emphasis on the designers, artists, and engravers.

Although English silver took the spotlight, exhibits also covered fields from Andorra, Mexico and the United States to slave, coal, prison and tax tokens. Individuals and their exhibits were:

G.A. Mooney -- Four George III and Victoria British coins including the 1777 cartwheel two pence in very fine to proof conditions. Also "Queen Victoria", a biography issued in 1901.

R.J. Hudson -- A group of 18th century English tokens including 8 in silver, 3 slave tokens in white metal, 4 Edinburgh, Scotland lead farthings and 1 Dublin lead token of George III dated 1790.

R.T. Foley -- A set of 6 plastic tokens of the North Carolina prison system, a set of 6 from South Carolina in the denominations of 1¢, 5¢, 10¢, 25¢, 50¢ and $1.00, a 1960 Andorra Crown in proof condition, Guadeloupe cut dollar of Charles VIII of Mexico--Potosi mint dated 1808, a set of bread tickets in brass from Riggleswade, Union Bedfordshire England, denominations of 1, 2, 3 and 4 units, (these are believed to be published here for the first time).

W.W. Woodside -- 36 silver coins of England including the Quinarius of Epaticcus, 21 pennies of the Saxon Heptachry, 13 pennies of the Kings of England from Edgar to Henry III, and a cut half penny of Stephen.

H.C. Bartley -- 40 different sales tax tokens from Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah, and Washington state.

J.F. Burns -- Paper scrip, tokens and checks from coal mines and merchant tokens from West Virginia and surrounding area.

R.A. Byrne -- 16 examples of Colonial coinage including 1 Willow tree shilling, 3 Pine tree shillings, 1 Oak tree shilling and 1 Massachusetts Pine tree 6 pence. Also a medallion of the Cremation Society, dated 1887-1912.

R.S. Porter -- A set of Colonial currencies representing 8 American Colonies.

Dr. J.O. Sloss -- A Half Eagle of 1797, 16 star variety.

Special attention was called to the annual social dinner and meeting to be held August 6th, at which members are invited to bring guests, to exhibit prize specimens, and to offer any material they may have for trade or sale.

RARE PIONEER GOLD EXHIBITED AT
WESTERN PA. NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

A group of Territorial and Pioneer gold specimens, unlikely to be seen anywhere else in the world, was shown and discussed by Dr. R.J. Hudson at the June 4, 1963, meeting of the WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA NUMISMATIC SOCIETY at the Carnegie Library in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Seventeen members and a guest were treated to a rare dissertation not only on the history and lore of pioneer gold but also an imposing array of pertinent literature and the results of Dr. Hudson's personal research on specimens in his collection, some of which were traced back to famous sales in the early 1880's. One example was a $1 Pacific Company piece of which only 5 are known, which was sold as a token in 1885 for $9.10.

Elected to office for the ensuing year were the following: Mr. Raymond A. Byrne, President; Dr. James O. Sloss, Vice President; Mr. Glenn A. Mooney, Secretary-Treasurer; and Mr. Jack F. Burns, Curator. Joining the select ranks of only 21 past presidents in the 86 year life of the Society was Mr. Richard T. Foley, who received the sincere thanks of a grateful membership.

Mr. Byrne appointed to the Membership Committee Mr. Robert S. Porter, Chairman, Mr. William W. Woodside, Mr. P.A. Williams and Mr. Emerson S. Smith. The Program Committee was composed of Dr. James O. Sloss, Chairman, Mr. Robert T. Foley, Mr. Robert L. Glose and Mr. David L. Davis. A newly established group to be called the Coin Information Committee was charged with reviewing and reporting on new developments in the numismatic field, including but not limited to literature, new issues, movements, discoveries, and research. Members are Dr. R.J. Hudson, Chairman, Mr. Gordon Dodrill, and Mr. Jack F. Burns.

Exhibits for the most part augmented the evening's subject of Pioneer gold. Dr. D. Adams showed $10 and $20 U.S. Assay Office California gold pieces, Dr. Sloss commented on his $10, $20 & $50 Pioneer gold pieces. Mr. Phil Williams exhibited his $50 Moffat-Hombart, $20 Moffat California, and a set of 25¢, 50¢ and $1.00 California gold pieces. Also a gold scale made by Allender in 1855. Mr. Bartley displayed a gold nugget, an Italian silver 500 Lira piece of 1960, a French 5 Franc of 1947, a Great Britain half crown of 1948, and Greek 10 Apaxmai, and a German 5 Mark piece of 1951. Mr. Mooney presented pioneer gold jewelry with an account from family records of its panning and fabrication.

Mr. Burns exhibited the newly issued "No Tip" tokens and 5, 10, 25 and 50 centavos Cuban sugar estate tokens from Guantanamo. Mr. Foley explained his Columbian Exposition medal designed by the Italian sculptor Poghliaini in Milan, his Andrew Jackson 2nd inauguration (1833) silver proof medal housed in a gold ring with magnifying glass covers, and his Christopher Columbus copper medal in high relief. Mr. Porter displayed a complete set of Heraldic Art Silver commemorative medallions; Mr. Oschman, Philippine Island coinage 1903 to date; and Mr. Byrne, 4 rare Canadian Tokens. These were: copper and brass Northwest Company tokens (Br 925, 925a), Vexator Canadensis (Br 559), and Copper Company of Upper Canada in silver proof (Br 721).

An annual numismatic program is now being developed and will be available in the near future.

Suggestions from the Curator of the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society for the Form of Papers submitted to the Society

, In order that the Papers that are read before the Society may be bound in book form it is necessary that the following rules apply to the typewritten manuscripts. They represent good practice and should be followed fairly closely that the manuscripts may be uniform.

1. Paper

The paper should be of good quality linen, size 8½ x 11, and of heavy quality. Do not fold the completed manuscript.

2. Typing

Black ribbon should be used. The text must be double-spaced. Footnotes and bibliographical material may be single-spaced. Only one side of the paper may be used. Use Pica type.

3. Margins

A space of one and one-half inches on the inner or left-hand margin must be left free from writing. This is to allow for binding. The right-hand margin should be made as even as possible, with at least one-half inch left blank. One inch should be allowed at the top and one-half inch at the bottom. The pages should be folioed, or numbered at the outside (left-hand) corner of the top margin. This is for the convenience of the curator who will re-number them on the right-hand corner according to their position in the bound volume.

4. Paragraphs

Paragraph indentations should be uniformly ten letter spaces long.

5. Footnotes

Use arabic figures 1, 2, 3, immediately following the name, phrase or sentence which the footnote concerns, as

"-----in this way."

Footnotes are to be placed at the bottom of the page under a ruled line, as follows:

1. Halloran, T.H., "Silver Bullion" American Book Company (1923) page 36
2. Morris, T.F., "Our First National Bank Notes" The Numismatist. Volume 51 (1938) page 573

6. Bibliography

A complete list of all books and articles cited should be given in the appendix which should be placed on the last page of the manuscript. This bibliography will be of great value to those who wish to do further research work on the same subject.

Eagle Heraldry On Coinage

By David Ash
Oakville, Ontario

Birds, of course, play a large and prominent part in heraldry. Those which have been impressed into the service of heraldic emblazonment comprise almost every species known to ornithologists.

Though the earliest roles of arms give us instances of various other birds, the one which makes the most prominent appearance is the eagle, either in heraldry or as an armorial bearing, and in all the early representations this will invariably be found "displayed."

In the 12th and 13th centuries the eagle appears with the head raised and the beak closed, the sachsen (bones of the wings) are curled up at the ends, and the pinions (like the talons) take a vertical downward direction. The tail, composed of a number of stiff feathers, frequently issues from a knob or ball.

With the end of the 14th century the head straightens itself, the beak opens and the tongue disappears, and the claws form an acute angle with the direction of the body; at this period also the claws occasionally receive the hose covering the upper part of the leg. Furthermore, the feathers of the tail spread out sicklewise.

The 15th century shows the eagle with sachsen forming a half circle, the pinions spread out and radiating therefrom, and the claws more at a right angle. The 16th century draws the eagle in a more ferocious aspect, and depicts it in as ornamental and ornate a manner as possible.

The double eagle occurs in the East as well as in the West in very early times. Since about 1335 A.D. the double eagle has appeared sporadically as a symbol of the Roman-German Empire, and under Emperor Sigismund became the settled armorial device of the Roman Empire. King Sigismund before his coronation as Emperor, bore the single-headed eagle.

The earliest instance of the eagle as a definitely heraldic charge upon a shield made its appearance upon the Great Seal of the Markgrave Leopold of Austria in 1136 A.D. where the equestrian figure of the Markgrave carries a shield so charged.

More or less regularly, subsequently to the reign of Frederick Barbarossa, elected King of the Romans in 1152, and crowned as Emperor in 1155, the eagle with one or two heads seems to have become the recognized heraldic symbol of the Holy Roman Empire; and the seal of Richard, Earl of Cornwall, elected King of the Romans in AD 1257, shows his arms displayed upon the breast of an eagle.

The origin of the double-headed eagle has been the subject of endless controversy, the tale one is usually taught to believe being that it originated in the dimidiation upon one shield of two separate coats of arms.

The Imperial eagle was not one eagle with two heads, but two eagles, the one laid upon the other, and their heads separated, looking different ways, which represented the two heads of the Empire after it was divided into East and West. The whole discussion is an apt example of the habit of earlier writers to find or provide hidden meanings and symbolism when no such meanings existed.

The real truth undoubtedly is that the double-headed eagle was an accepted figure long before heraldry came into existence.

It may perhaps be as well to point out, with the exception of the two positions "displayed" and "closed", very little if any agreement at all exists amongst authorities either as to the terms to be employed or as to the position intended for the wings when a given term is used in a blazon. Practically every other single position is simply blazoned "rising", this term being employed without additional distinctive terms of variation in official blazons and emblazonments.

Nor can one obtain any certain information from reference to the real eagle, for the result of careful observation would seem to show that in the first stroke of the wings, when rising from the ground they pass through every position from the wide outstretched form, which are termed "rising with wings elevated and displayed", to a position practically "closed". As a consequence, therefore, no one form can be said to be more correct than the other, either from the point of view of nature or from the point of view of ancient precedent.

The following figures numbered one to nine will serve as a full and comprehensive list. An angle may differ, but their position will invariably remain the same. Furthermore, it must be pointed out that heraldry is not in service in all countries. Therefore, it is incorrect to refer or term certain blazons heraldry, but rather in certain instances armorial bearings, as they originated with the science of armory, which appropriated them ready-made, together with their symbolism.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

MEETING FEB. 4, 1964

The Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society met at the Carnegie Museum Library, Tuesday, Feb. 4, 1964, at 8:00 p.m. R. A. Byrne presided. Present were 20 members and 2 guests. The minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer's report were approved as read. The Treasurer requested and received permission to pay the following bills:

G.A. Mooney postage 11/6/63 - 2/4/64 - $3.00

Medallie Art Co. of N. Y. for second half of commitment - $438.00

The restrikes of the Society Medallion were distributed by the secretary and signed for by the members. At this point a lengthy discussion ensued, concerning the cessation of subsequent restrikes, and whether or not the entire membership should have been informed as to the Society's intention of having the Medallions restruck. It was explained that the subject and developments had been discussed at the previous 6 meetings, and that all action had been approved by a majority of those present, and are extensively covered in the minutes of these meetings--such minutes being permanent records of the society.

Two motions pertaining to the above were offered, but were withdrawn before voting. It was, however, moved, seconded and carried that the discussions be tabled for the present, and that interested members should refer to the minutes if they wished to do so.

A membership committee member, Phil Williams, read for the first time membership applications and recommendation letters with respect to Dr. Hollander and Joseph M. Tosch, both of Beaver, Pa.

Initiation fees and 1/64 dues were turned over to the treasurer, and the letters and applications to the President, for forwarding to Mr. Porter, Chairman of the Memberships Committee.

It was reported that 8 pieces of publicity had been noted concerning the society and it's members since the last meeting--this brought the total to 60 pieces since June, 1963.

The secretary reported a few pieces of routine correspondence--copies of which are filed with the minutes.

Dr. Sloss introduced Phil Williams and his subject for the evening, "Oddities in Numismatics". After the talk exhibits for the evening mostly relating to items pertaining to Numismatics were explained by members.
